POLITICAL.

MR. WEBSTER'S

Second Speech at Buffalo.

In the City of Buffalo

[illegible]

[illegible] Gentlemen, we all see that by whomsoever possessed, Texas is likely to be a slaveholding country, and I frankly avow my entire unwillingness to do anything that shall extend the slavery of the African on this continent, and add other slaveholding States to the Union. When I said that I regarded Slavery as a great moral and political evil I only used language that has been adopted by distinguished men, themselves patriots of slaveholding States. I shall do nothing to extend or encourage its further extension. We have Slavery already among us. The Constitution found it among us. It recognized it, and gave it solemn guarantees. To the full extent of those guarantees we are still bound in honor and justice, and by the Constitution. All those provisions contained in the Constitution in favor of the slaveholding States which are already in the Union, ought to be fulfilled, and so far as depends on me, shall be fulfilled, in the fullness of their spirit, and to the exactness of their letter. Slavery, as it exists in the States is beyond the reach of Congress. It is the concern of the States themselves. They have never submitted it to Congress, and Congress has no right or power over it. I shall go on therefore in no act, no measure no menace no land cession or purpose which shall interfere, or threaten to interfere with the exclusive authority of the several States over the subject of slavery, as it exists within their respective limits. All this appears to me to be a matter of plain and imperative duty. But when we come to speak of admitting new States, the subject assumes a new and entirely different aspect. Our rights and our duties are then both different. The free States and all the States are then at liberty to accept or reject.—When it is proposed to bring new members into this political partnership the old members have a right to say on what terms such partners are to come in and what they are to bring along with them. In my opinion, the people of the United States will not consent to bring in a new, vastly extensive and slaveholding country, larger enough for half a dozen or dozen States into the Union. In my opinion they ought not to consent to it.

Gentlemen I am mistaken. Congress did consent to the bringing in of Texas. I did not consent, and I was a false prophet. Not a Free State consented and the majority of the Representatives of New York consented. I was in Congress before the final consummation of the deed, and the evil I fought, holding up both my hands, and proclaiming with a voice strong as I can now speak the whole of it. But you would have it so, and you did have it so. Nay gentlemen, I will tell the truth whether it shames the devil or not. (Laughter.) Persons who have aspired high as lovers of liberty—as ardent lovers of the Wilmot proviso—as eminent Free Soilmen, and who have mounted over our heads and troubled us do not as if we were mere slaves, they are the men that brought Texas into this country. I hate to say the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, and I declare it before you, and in the presence of my God that it was so.

Look at the journals! Without the consent of New York Texas would not have come into the Union under either of the political resolutions or afterwards. But New York voted for it, she did. The two Senators from New York voted for it and turned the casting vote, and you may thank them for the glory that they see in the happiness of having five or six slave States added to the Union. (Great sensation.) Don't blame me for it. Let them answer who did the deed, and who are now proclaiming liberty, and using it for humbug and trade purposes. Gentlemen who aided in bringing in Texas? It was all fairly told to you. Did you read Moses and the prophets (laughter) but if one had risen from the dead, such was your devotion to that policy at that time that you would not have heard him, or listened to him. I say that with the blessing of God I will never, never, never, before the country or the world consent to be numbered among those who introduced new slave territory into the Union. (Applause.)

And again (gentlemen) the Mexican war broke out. This vast territory was acquired and the peace was made and much as I disliked the war, I disliked the peace more, because it brought us these territories. That territory was unknown. The war came from the South. I knew that certain South ern gentlemen who desired such a country as California and New Mexico and Utah as an instrument of extending slave authority and slave population, cared little for unknown about it. I did not fall into their idea much but seeing what it led to, I considered—seeing how much it would distract the Union, I voted against the acquisition. I wanted none of her territory. California, New Mexico nor Utah. They were rather ultra Americans. They were far from us and I saw that they might lead to a political disturbance and I for one, I tell you, and all—against the treaty and against the peace, and against all of it. Seeing that it would be an occasion of dispute—that by the controversy the whole Union would be agitated, Messrs. Berrien, Badger, and other respectable and distinguished men of the South, voted against the acquisition and the treaty which secured it, and the men of the North and voted in the same way, we would have been spared all the evil feelings that have grown out of it. (Applause.)

Now there is not sort of doubt gentlemen that there were some persons in the South who supposed that California at first came in as a slave State. You know the extraordinary events that arose there. You know that California received a rush from the Northern people and that African slavery could no more live there than he could on the top of Mount Hecla. Of necessity it became a free State, and that no doubt was a source of much disappointment to the South. And that there was New Mexico and Utah, what was to be done with them? Why, gentlemen from the best investigation I have given the subject and the reflection I have devoted to it I know of the opinion that the mountains of New Mexico and Utah could no more sustain American Slavery than the snows of Canada. I saw it was impossible. I thought so then. I think so now. Therefore, gentlemen, when it was proposed in Congress to apply the Wilmot proviso to New Mexico and Utah it appeared to me just as absurd as to apply it here in Western New York. I saw that the snowy hills, the eternal mountains, and the climate of those countries, would never support Slavery. No man could carry a slave there with any expectation of profit. It could not be done and as the South thought that it was irritating and disrespectful, I was not willing to do it and therefore, I saw no occasion for applying the Wilmot Proviso to New Mexico or Utah. I voted accordingly, and who doubts it now. The law admitting those territories passed without any proviso. Is there a slave or is it likely there will be one there? Why, there is not a man in the United States so stupid as not to see at this moment that such a thing was wholly unnecessary, and that it was only calculated to irritate and offend. And I am not one who is disposed to create irritation or give offence to our brothers, or to break up fraternal friendship without cause. The question was open whether Slavery should or should not go to New Mexico or Utah. There is no Slavery. There is not the shining face of an African there. It is utterly impracticable and utterly ridiculous to suppose it, and no one, who does not mean to agitate, will urge it.

Well, gentlemen, we have a race of agitators all over the country—some connected with the press, some I am sorry to say, connected with the learned professions. They agitate—their livelihood consists in agitating—their freehold, their copyhold, their capital, their all and all, depends on the excitement of the public mind. Gentlemen, these things went on at the commencement of the year 1850. There were two great questions before the public. There was the question of the Texan boundary, and of a Government for Utah and New Mexico, which I come der as one question, and there was the question of making a provision for the restoration of fugitive slaves. Gentlemen, on these subjects I have something to say. Texas, as you know, established her independence of Mexico by her revolution and the battle of San Jacinto which made her a sovereign power. I have already stated to you what I have anticipated from the movement—that she would ask to come into the Union as a slave State. We admitted Texas in 1845, and we admitted her as a slave State. We admitted her in 1845 and we admitted her with her own boundaries—remember. She claimed by conquest all the territory which was commonly called New Mexico east of the Rio Grande. She claimed also by these limits what her Constitution had declared and established as the proper limits of Texas. This was her claim and when she was admitted into the United States the United States did not dispute her territory. They admitted her as she was. We took her as she defined her own limits. With the power of making three middle slave States. I say free but I did not always remember that.

Now this state of things runs back to 1850—What was the state of things in 1850? There was Texas as she claimed all that part of the territory which was called New Mexico, as she defined her own limits. We took her as she was. We admitted her as she claimed herself to be. We admitted her by the decision of the United States and we were ready to receive her with her claim of territory for Texas which was disputed by the people of New Mexico. Texas was a slave State. I was in Congress when Texas was admitted. I remember it well. I was in Congress when the bill was passed for the admission of Texas. I was in Congress when Texas came from her camp in the wilderness of Texas to New Mexico. I was in Congress when the bill was passed for the admission of New Mexico. I was in Congress when the bill was passed for the admission of Texas

Bangor, March 15, 1851.

IN QUART BOTTLES.

The following testimonials are selected from among the multitude of those we are daily receiving, and for further confirmation, the reader is referred to the Family Recipe and Medical Almanac, to be had gratuitously of all our agents.

New York, July 27, 1842.

Messrs. A. B. & D. Sands—Gentlemen: Words cannot but be a very feeble tribute to the virtues of your Sarsaparilla—suffice it, however, that my wife is restored to perfect health by the use of your invaluable Sarsaparilla—she was afflicted with a very extraordinary disease, that defied the whole authority of the faculty, physicians who had been employed to attend her, pronounced it a long time from an affection of the liver, connected with general debility, and prostration of the nervous system. Physicians, both in Europe and America, had exhausted their skill, and the best medical advice, without effecting a cure; she was given up by her friends, and her death was anything but unlikely, until the happy trial of your Sarsaparilla. This disease was pronounced, at the time, by the ablest physicians, incurable, and she was bedfast for six weeks, and required more than one-dozen bottles of your invaluable Sarsaparilla, before she was able to be about the house, and even then she was very feeble. Her recovery was so astonishing, that it attracted the attention of her friends, who, from her appearance, had given her up for dead. My object in making this communication is, that all who have suffering friends, may know where to apply for relief, (and that not in vain,) as a complete cure was the result. My wife unites with me in heartfelt thanks, and believe me, gentlemen, yours respectfully,

FREDERICK NAZER, 234 Kingsland st.

N. B.—Extra consignation of above to be had of McCombs, cor. Maiden Lane and Nassau st., Brooklyn, N. Y.

City and County of New York, ss.—Frederick Nazer being duly sworn, doth depose and say that the foregoing statement, to which he has subscribed his name, is true to the best of his knowledge and belief. Sworn and subscribed this 27th day of July, 1842, before me, C. S. WOODRUFF, Mayor.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 1st, 1849.

Messrs. A. B. & D. Sands—Gentlemen: Last year I was attacked with Rheumatism in the shoulder, which extended down my arm, so that I was entirely disabled from using my hand or arm. I was advised to try your Sarsaparilla, which I did, and was soon able to be about the house. I was able to be about the house in a few days, and in a few weeks was able to do my business. I can with truthfulness say that I was cured by your Sarsaparilla. I can with confidence recommend it to the public as a valuable medicine, and I feel that I owe my life to the use of your Sarsaparilla. I know what I said time to time to alleviate their sufferings and effect a cure.

Yours very truly,

JOHN DANVARD, 31 Chambers st.

ELEGANT AND INVALUABLE

Articles for the Toilet

Bogle's Hyperion Fluid.

For Restoring, Preserving, and Embellishing the HAIR.

The following Certificate, from Dr. Winslow Lewis, one of the most eminent Physicians of Boston, will show the estimation in which it is held by the scientific and learned, being one only of many similar ones.

Boston, Feb. 15 1847.

Mr. Wm. Bogle—Sir: The preparation invented by you for the hair, has been extensively used in my family, and they give it the decided preference over all other compositions of the kind. It invigorates and beautifies the hair, and cleans the skin of all impurities, without producing any ultimate deleterious effects, which are so frequently the result of many well known patented compounds.

WINSLOW LEWIS.

It is an indispensable article for the Ladies, for it keeps the hair in place at ball and the skin free from dandruff and scurf. For children, it lays the foundation of a good head of hair.

BOGLE'S AMOLE,

A COMPOUND FOR SHAVING.

This delightful article is totally different and far superior to anything yet invented for shaving. This is not it is derived from the Amole, or Soap plant of California, an article used by the natives of that country for washing; and thus the use of strong alkali, so hurtful to the skin, is avoided. Its vegetable and detergent properties have the purest and most agreeable effects on the skin,—it soothes and allays irritation, and leaves a fine, thick, creamy lather, which does not dry on the face. It is a decided luxury to the shaved, with it is incomparable soap. It is done up in elegant style, calculated either for the traveling and ready traveller, or the toilet of the most fastidious connoisseur.

Bogle's Hebeatona.

FOR REFRESHING AND BEAUTIFYING THE COMPLEXION.

Eradicating Tans, Pimples, and other eruptions of the skin, and rendering it fair, delicate and blooming. It is equally efficacious in protecting the skin from the hot sun of summer, and freezing blasts of winter, and is the most fragrant and delicious article to be found at the toilet of fashion.

All the above articles have stood the test of the strictest investigation, and are guaranteed superior to any thing of the kind ever offered, or invented, or if not found to prove so on trial, the money in all cases will be refunded by my Agents.

THE

GENUINE BALM OF COLUMBIA.

IF you wish a rich, luxurious head of hair, free from dandruff or scurf, do not fail to procure the genuine Balm of Columbia. In cases of baldness it will more than exceed your expectations. Many who have lost their hair for twenty years, have had it restored to its original position, by the use of this balm. Age, sickness, or condition appears to be no check, as it invigorates the field to flow with such the delicate hair tubes are filled, by which so many thousands (whose hair was gray as the Ashes of a giant lady, had their hair restored to its natural color) have now made it ready. In all cases of fever it will be found the most important which has ever existed. A few applications only are necessary to keep the hair from falling out. Dye strength on the more, it never fails to impart a rich glossy appearance, and as a perfumer for the toilet it is unequalled. Ladies, three times as much as any other miscellaneous hair restoratives, will be more effectual.

☞ Caution—Never buy unless you find the signature of Comstock & Co., on the wrapper, and the name of each bottle, or you are cheated with a counterfeit article.
